Draft for review, version 3 (15 Oct 2026): not approved wording

This is the one-page agreement a 365 customer signs on 365aeration.com after Jen quotes by phone and takes half the price as a deposit. Signing it books the job. The customer types their name and ticks two boxes; the app keeps the time, the version and a fingerprint of exactly what they saw.

The wording was drafted from what the call agrees and how 365 works. It has not been reviewed by an attorney. The example below uses made-up details; the real form fills in each customer's own.

Version 3 adds the optional card on file for the balance (outlined below, and item 8 at the bottom). Version 2 took in Matthew's answers to the first draft's questions. Both are for Brandon to confirm or change.

Sample, here's your agreement

The details

1. We will do the work listed above at this address on the day shown, arriving in the time shown.
2. Please let us know if there are sprinklers, shallow pipes or invisible dog fences, so they can be marked before we start.
3. On the day, please leave gates unlocked and keep pets inside.
4. If the weather or the ground (frozen, waterlogged or very dry) stops us, we will contact you to move the day.
5. To reschedule or cancel, call or text (720) 830-4553 at least 24 hours before your day.
6. The deposit is non-refundable.

Pay your deposit

Pay the $225 deposit by card on Square's secure page. You come straight back here to sign.

☐ Save this card with Square and charge the $224 balance to it on the day of the service. (Optional. Leave it unticked to pay the balance another way.)
[Pay $225 deposit]

Shown only when the deposit is paid by Square link on the form. The box starts unticked.

What changed, for Brandon

Items 1 to 7 came in with version 2 (Matthew's answers). Item 8 is new in version 3.

1. Deposit: non-refundable for now. Brandon to confirm
2. Reschedule or cancel: by calling or texting, with 24 hours' notice.
3. Sprinklers, pipes, dog fences: the customer only lets us know, so they can be marked. They don't have to mark or list them.
4. Gates and pets: gates unlocked and pets inside on the day.
5. Results: left out. Jen can talk about results on the call if it comes up.
6. The balance: unless they save their card (item 8), the agreement doesn't say how the balance is paid. Jen settles that on the call (cash, a payment link or a card on the day).
7. Signing: a typed name and two boxes, one for "I have read this and agree" and one for signing electronically. The app keeps the time, the version and a fingerprint of what they saw.
8. Card on file for the balance: new in v3 Brandon to confirm
   - An optional box above the Pay button: "Save this card with Square and charge the $224 balance to it on the day of the service." It starts unticked.
   - Their choice is recorded before they go to Square to pay, with the time, their internet address and their device. If they tick it, the same sentence goes into "What we agreed" on the form they sign.
   - Square saves the card on their customer profile. The card number is held by Square, never by 365 or the app; the app only knows the brand and the last four digits.
   - Nothing is charged automatically. Brad or the office taps "Charge the balance" once the work is done, and only the balance shown can be charged, once.
   - Questions for Brandon: should the line also say what happens if the work can't be done that day, or that the card isn't charged for anything else? Does a card on file change the 24-hour cancellation wording?

Still open: whether any of this needs an attorney's look before real customers sign it.
