SURGE SITE: BEFORE AND AFTER

What changed on the new Surge website, page by page, across two rounds: the office's review of 29 Sep (Lance and Brandon's audit), applied 5 Oct, and Brandon's round of 21 Oct. Each page of the site gets a page listing both rounds of changes, then the three versions side by side.

OFFICE REVIEW · 29 SEP, APPLIED 5 OCT

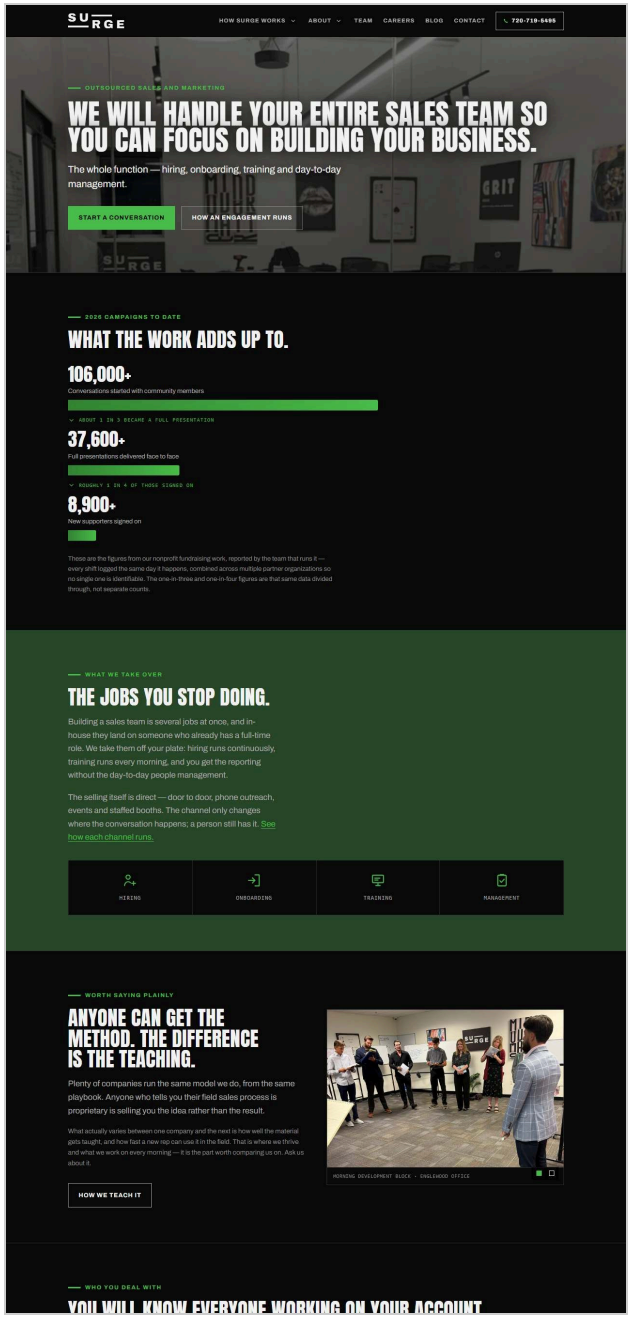

- The hero speaks to candidates: "Start in sales. Learn the whole business." with Apply and See the roles, in place of the client pitch.
- New bands for candidates: how you are taught every morning, the four stages from first conversation to a new territory, and who you work with.
- The campaign figures move lower on the page.
- Client content shrinks to one small "For companies" band; the closing call becomes "The first step is an interview."

BRANDON'S ROUND · 21 OCT

- "Anyone can get the method. The difference is the teaching." comes back in place of "Taught every morning, by people who have done the job."
- The hero adds leadership development, growth opportunities and high earning potential.
- The four stages are headed "Growth opportunities", and each stage now has a one-line description.
- Growth and leadership wording through the page; the closing call becomes "Start growing your career."
- The footer on every page has Apply beside Book a consultation.

ABOUT

OFFICE REVIEW · 29 SEP, APPLIED 5 OCT

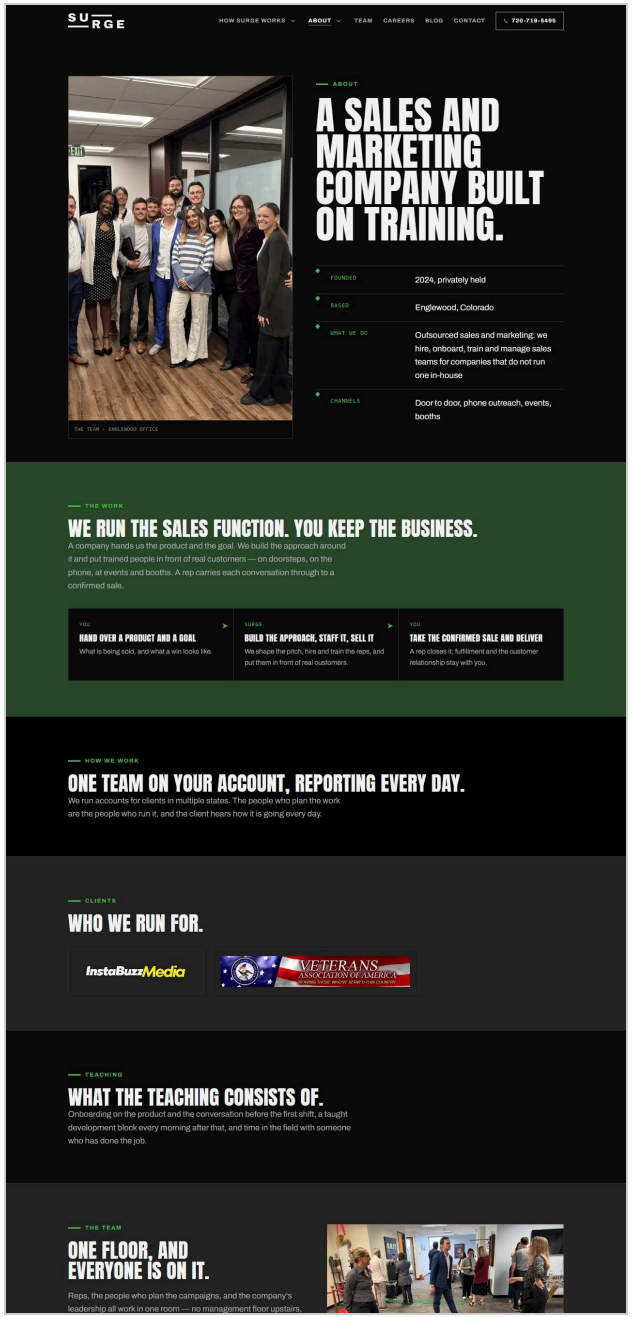

- The client logo wall is gone; in its place, "Industries we have worked in": Software and SaaS, Automotive, Roofing, Nonprofit, Aeration.
- How we work, Teaching (the four stages and what each teaches), The team and the closing call are rewritten for candidates.

BRANDON'S ROUND · 21 OCT

- "Industries we have worked in" becomes "Sectors we work in": five cards, each with an icon and a line.
- Aeration becomes Landscaping.
- The "How we work" section is removed, here and from every page's menu.
- The opening line becomes "A sales and marketing company built on training and leadership."
- The closing heading "Start at stage one." becomes "Take the first step."; the line under it stays.

WHAT WE DO

OFFICE REVIEW · 29 SEP, APPLIED 5 OCT

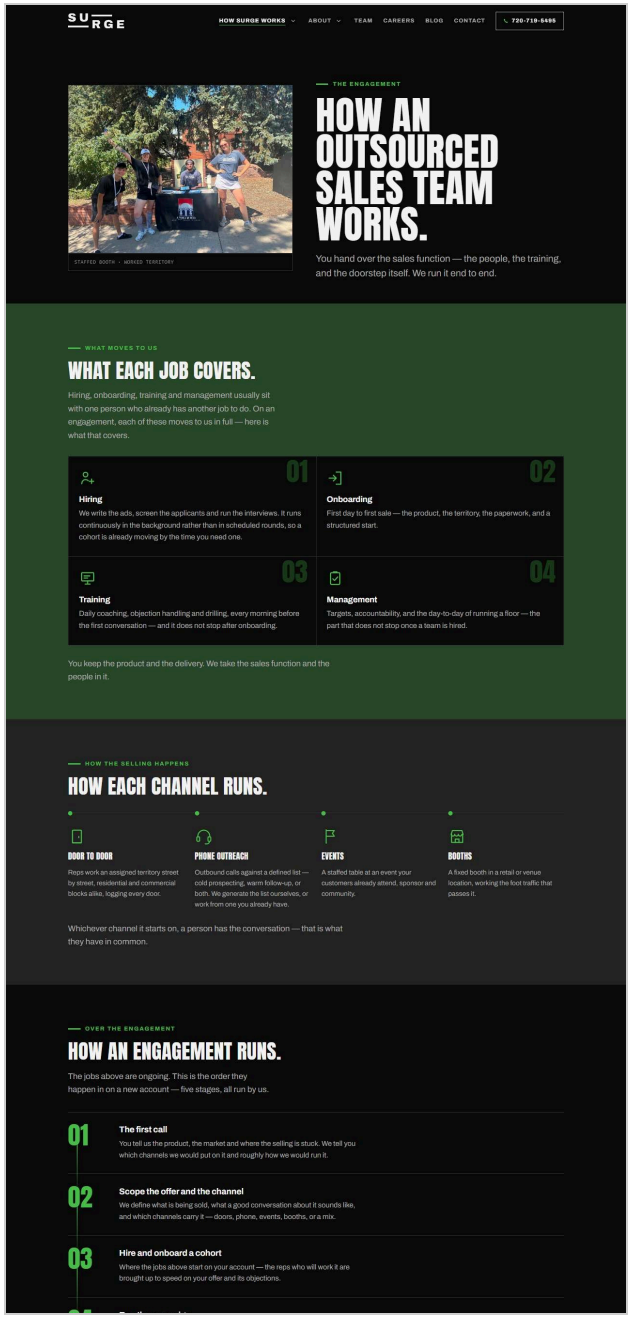

- The booth photo with a client's banner and shirts is replaced by a training photo from the office.
- The job cards and the five-stage engagement list are replaced by the four stages, "inception to expansion".

BRANDON'S ROUND · 21 OCT

- How campaigns are run now reads "with experienced leadership and day-to-day management."
- "Where we actually differ" adds two points: Training methods (taught before launch, a development block every morning, coaching in the field) and Growth opportunities (a rep who can sell and teach it becomes a trainer).
- The closing call "We will tell you how we would run it." becomes "Learn how we handle campaigns."
- Menu: How we work removed; Industries renamed Sectors.

TEAM

- Ryan Conger and Jon Wallace are off the page; their bio pages now send visitors to the team page.
- A section on coming up through the work, and a closing call aimed at candidates.

BRANDON'S ROUND · 21 OCT

- The intro calls them "the leadership and management team you would work alongside."
- The closing call becomes "Apply today and start growing your career alongside our leadership team."
- Menu: How we work removed; Industries renamed Sectors.

CAREERS

OFFICE REVIEW · 29 SEP, APPLIED 5 OCT

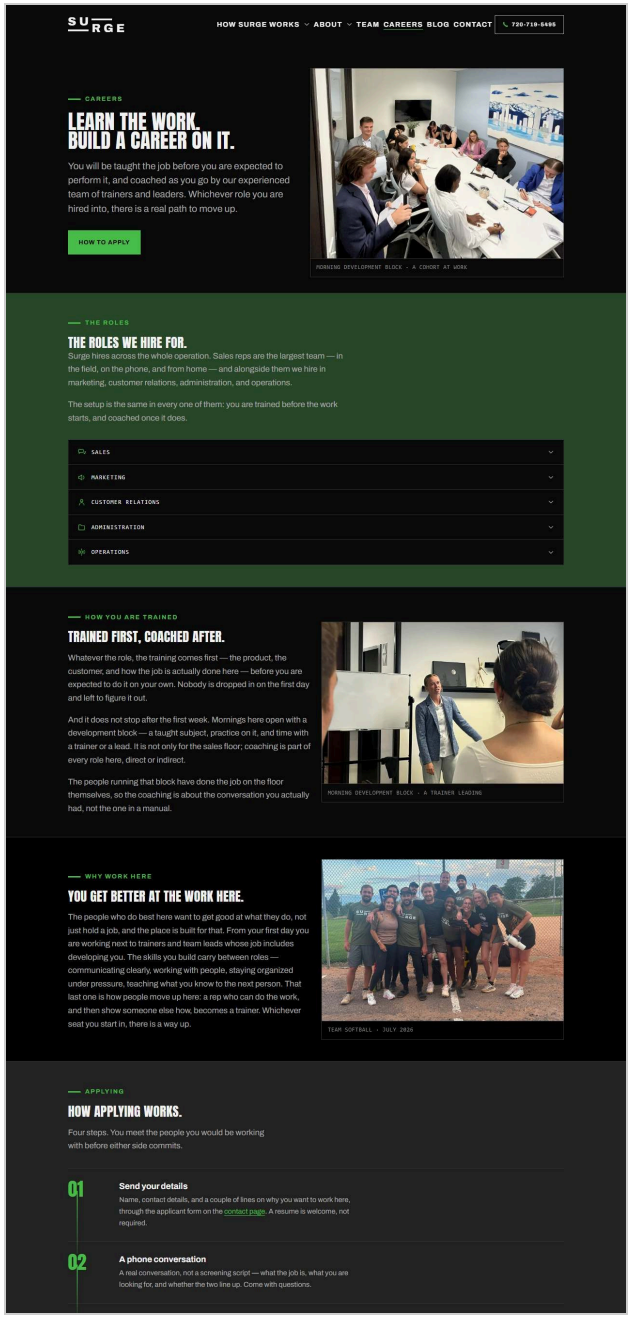

- The Careers page itself was unchanged in this round.
- The menu on every page changed: new What we do and About sections, with old links redirected.

BRANDON'S ROUND · 21 OCT

- The opening adds a path into leadership and management, growth opportunities and high earning potential.
- "You get better at the work here." becomes "Grow your career here.", with leadership development, management experience and growth opportunities.
- "Three interviews" becomes "Interviews" and no longer names who interviews (the operations manager, a trainer, the CEO).
- The closing call "Want in?" becomes "Unlock your potential. Start growing your career today."
- On the Contact page, "I am looking for a job" now comes before "I am a prospective client".
