PEAK PICKLEBALL · SALES PLAN

Selling corporate sponsorships, and selling memberships online and in person

For Brandon · 20 Oct 2026 · Peak already wants us selling both; this is how

Corporate sponsorships BRANDON SELLS · MATTHEW BUILDS THE TOOLS

What Peak sells today: a court sponsorship at $12,000 a year (a 6 × 3 ft inner-court sign, "membership medallions", 2 paddles and a group lesson for 4) and a title spot at $24,000 (premium visibility, medallions, VIP events, mentions), plus a logo tier with no published price. Every sign carries its own QR code. It lists 28 sponsors (10 title, 15 court, 3 logo) for 24 courts, so up to 9 courts may be open. Two partners already give members perks (Hotel Polaris rates, Whistle Pig Brewing drinks), and Platinum members get invites to sponsor and networking events. Its best selling point is the events it has hosted: the first USA Pickleball Wheelchair Nationals (94 players, June 2026), the Colorado Open (204 players, Aug 2026), a USA Pickleball Golden Ticket qualifier (July 2025), plus a free weekly veterans class of about 60.

Who to sell to

MARKET	EXAMPLES
Health PROVEN	Orthopedics, physical therapy, IV and stretch studios, dental, hearing
Medicare, senior PROVEN	Medicare advisors, senior living, home care
Home services PROVEN	Roofing, electric, flooring, HVAC, solar, landscaping
Money, property PROVEN	Banks, credit unions, advisors, insurance, realtors
Auto, food PROVEN	Dealers, dent repair, restaurants, breweries
Veterans, adaptive	Defense contractors, mobility suppliers, rehab hospitals

PROVEN Peak already has sponsors in that market. Start with their competitors and neighbours.

How Brandon sells it

1. Leads: members who own businesses, current sponsors' referrals and competitors, chambers, businesses already advertising locally.
2. The meeting: invite them for a free team session on the courts instead of pitching on the phone.
3. The proposal: their goal, Peak's audience and events, one or two options, and the payback: yearly price ÷ what one customer is worth (a $1,500 patient pays back a court in 8).
4. Close: Peak signs the contract; renewal date set.

What to add to what Peak sells

- Smaller year-round tiers. Peak's packages start at $12,000. A charity tournament at Peak offered event packages from $300 to $10,000 (none listed as sold), so a lower entry point is already being tried.
- Event title spots. The Colorado Open drew 204 players with Peak as its own title sponsor and no outside sponsor: sell next year's.
- A member offer for every sponsor, the way Hotel Polaris and Whistle Pig Brewing already do it.
- Naming: the championship courts, the dink courts, the fitness room, the golf simulator, "Peak Premier League presented by..." (no league sponsor today).
- Booth and demo days, and staff memberships and team events for the sponsor's employees.
- Cause giving through Give 'Em Heaven, Peak's owners' charity: its 1K Club ($1,000 to $5,000, open to businesses) and annual gala.
- One sponsor per category, charged as a premium (two pizza places are both title sponsors today).

What keeps them paying

- A monthly results report per sponsor: custom QR evaluations, offer redemptions, leads from booth days, event attendance, photos.
- Renewal talks 90 days early, with the reports in hand.
- Commission norm: 15–20% on new deals, about 10% on renewals, in writing before selling.

The 5th Annual Veterans Pickleball Tournament (6–8 Nov) lists no outside sponsor. Pitch the veterans, adaptive and health markets for its presenting spot this week.

Memberships ONLINE AND IN PERSON

Where it stands: Drop-in $12/hr · Play $39/mo · Flex $99 · Unlimited $159 · Platinum $199 · Student $9, all month to month, signup through CourtReserve. There's a free Learn to Play class, and Peak is on Wellhub for employer wellness. Its site lists no first-month offer, no direct corporate or group plan, and no way to pause a membership.

Online

1. Ads to the free class, not to a membership. Facebook and Instagram lead ads, and Google search ads for "indoor pickleball Colorado Springs". Short form: name, phone, email.
2. Follow up within 48 hours of the free class or a first drop-in, by text or call, with a first-month offer.
3. Email everyone who has ever booked: drop-ins and free-class players are the cheapest people to convert.
4. A "which plan fits you" guide on the membership page: once a week → Play; three or more times a week → Unlimited.
5. A corporate and group signup page: other clubs give 10% off for 1–5 employees, 20% for 6–50, 25% for 51+.
6. Google Business Profile kept current: photos, events, hours, reviews answered.
7. Referrals: reward Unlimited and Platinum members when a guest they bring joins.

In person

1. The mall: a staffed table inside Chapel Hills offering the free class or a first hour.
2. Front desk: every free-class player and drop-in leaves with the right plan pitched and their details taken.
3. Employers: pitch staff memberships and team events to local companies, alongside the sponsor pitch.
4. Military: Fort Carson alone employs 32,410 people. Peak gives only 5% off; a unit or spouse-group offer and booths at base events.
5. Seniors: the 55+ Senior Club through churches, HOAs, 55+ communities and senior centres.
6. Events: health and fitness expos, festivals, farmers markets: paddles out, free-class signups.
7. Students: the $9 plan at schools and colleges.

Keeping members

- A paid pause option for winter travel and injuries, instead of a cancellation.
- Leagues, mixers and ladders: members with friends at the club stay longest.

What Matthew builds

- The ad campaign and lead form, with leads landing in one pipeline Brandon's team works.
- Automatic follow-up texts and emails after a free class or drop-in.
- A weekly dashboard: leads → free classes → members, by source.
- For sponsors: the prospect list, pipeline, proposal maker and monthly reports.

Ask Peak for first
